

HARDWARE PEOPLE VISIT JAMESTOWN

Delegates Delighted With Entertainment Here—Even Weather Is Perfect.

DOWN TO BUSINESS TO-DAY

Reports of Officers and Committees Will Occupy Morning Sessions—Trade Topics.

About 600 members and guests of the Hardware Association of the Carolinas made the trip to Jamestown yesterday on the steamship Piedmont. They returned a little after 7 o'clock in the evening, having had a perfect day, and unusually rapid trip, and being deeply impressed with the scenery along the James River and the remains of the little settlement on Jamestown Island.

The time on the boat was enlivened by music and dancing, and by many planks that had been planted by the Richmond entertainers. Refreshments were served both going and returning, while grapefruit, river water and other beverages were served from a little buffet in the hold.

At Jamestown members of the women's entertainment committee acted as guides, showing the visitors all of the relics of the first English settlement in Virginia.

Get Down to Work To-Day.

The hardware men will get down to business this morning at 9 o'clock of the day being scheduled for 2:30 o'clock. New members will be elected at this meeting, and the reports of the president, secretary and several committees will be heard.

The afternoon session, which begins at 2:30 o'clock, will be devoted to the discussion of trade topics. This feature of the convention is a regular feature of the conventions and is of great interest to the members. "Does it pay to canvass your territory?" "Why do druggists sell more razors than hardware men?" "What are you doing to utilize the parcel post service?" are some of the questions the hardware men will try to solve to-day.

The entertainments for to-day include luncheon for the women guests at the Country Club, cars leaving the Jefferson Hotel at 11:30 o'clock this morning, and returning about 3 o'clock. At 3:30 o'clock to-night there will be a roof garden party at the Richmond Hotel, to which all of the delegates and guests are invited.

Charmed With Richmond.

The Carolinians are much charmed with the hospitality that has been accorded them in Richmond, and praise are heard on all sides for the local committee, headed by John B. Pinder, who planned the series of entertainments.

"There has not been a slow moment since we have been here," said a member last night. "I am in favor of striking from the by-laws the rule that the convention must meet hereafter in its own territory, so that we can come to a large, live city like Richmond. North of the country towns in mine." Everything has worked out according to schedule, including the weather, which was especially ordered by the entertainment committee, and came in at 8 a.m. according to specifications. It is a perpetual war with the Carolinians, many of whom came clad in linen and crash suits, prepared to weather some severe heat.

The convention will come to an end tomorrow, with two meetings in the morning, one at 9:30 o'clock and one at 11 o'clock. The first will be devoted largely to the insurance feature of the association, and at the last, officers will be elected and installed and the next place of meeting chosen.

Have His Exhibit.
The manufacturers' exhibit in the auditorium of the Jefferson Hotel continues to attract an admiring crowd. It is a striking display of the manufacturing strength of the South, and a well worth seeing, both from a spectacular and a practical point of view. Following is a list of the concerns represented:

Allen Manufacturing Company, of Nashville, Tenn.—the Ingers range, American Steel and Wire Company, New York—steel products.
Aluminum Casing Cressell Company, New Kensington, Pa.—wear proof cooking utensils.
Cameron Stove Company, Richmond—Cameron stoves and ranges.
Central Oil and Gas Company, Gardner, Mass.—lamp, tin and blue-flame stoves and heaters.
Crescent Stove Works, Evansville, Ind.—Crescent stoves and ranges.
Cottrell Saddlery Company, Richmond—harness, saddles and collars.
Benjamin T. Crump Company, Inc.,

RESIGNATIONS ASKED

United States Marshals in Florida Are Wanted No Longer.

Tampa, Fla., July 9.—Resignations of United States Marshals John P. Horr, of the Southern District of Florida, and W. A. McGourin, of the Northern District, have been requested by Attorney-General McKeen.

Marshall Horr stated this morning that as his term of office will not expire until February, he does not intend to resign. Horr has served a term of fifteen years.

It is likely Mr. McGourin also will decline to resign.

Declines to Discuss It.

Washington, July 9.—Attorney-General McKeen declined to-night to discuss his action in calling for the resignations of Marshals Horr and McGourin, of Florida, or his probable course in case the resignations were not forthcoming. Horr's term expires in February, 1914, and McGourin's a year later.

FINALLY LEAKS OUT

Mabel Tallaferra Admits That She Has Married Again.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] St. Louis, July 9.—After keeping her marriage to Thomas J. Carrigan, of La Peer, Mich., a secret for little more than a month, Mabel Tallaferra, of Chicago, formerly wife of Frederic Thompson, theatrical promoter, admitted here to-day that she had been married to him in June in the Michigan city. The marriage took place before a justice of the peace in a field of daisies that edged down to a river bank just outside of La Peer, in order that all possible secrecy might be maintained.

BANK SITUATION REACHES NORMAL

Information concerning the government's surveillance of the bank leaked out, and one big depositor withdrew $200,000 last Saturday. Government officials then learned that other big depositors contemplated making heavy withdrawals Monday. To prevent the large depositors from gaining the advantage of saving the deposit at the expense of small depositors, who were not aware of the circumstances, the government refused to let the bank open on Monday.

Startling Disclosures.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, July 9.—Startling evidence of criminal mismanagement of the First-Second National Bank of Pittsburgh is believed to have been brought here to-day by Comptroller of the Currency T. R. Kane as the result of a personal investigation of the bank's affairs.

Mr. Kane laid before Secretary of the Treasury McAdoo facts which, it is reported, show conclusively that many large loans were made to clerks, stenographers and bookkeepers in the bank and other dummies. The secretary refused to make these facts public, but immediately communicated some of the more serious ones to the Department of Justice.

Treasury officials seem confident that criminal prosecutions will soon be begun, but whether against W. S. and J. S. Kuhn, president and director, respectively, of the wrecked institution, will depend upon further developments. National bank examiners are still at work on the books, and until they report fully, no criminal proceedings will be started. Attorney-General McKeen's agents are, however, already trying to trace the responsibility for the conditions which have been brought to his attention.

After a conference with Comptroller Kane, Secretary McAdoo said: "There is every reason to believe that many large loans were made by the First-Second National Bank to dummies in the office, and the Department of Justice is informed of certain facts. It is for the Attorney-General to say whether any of these irregularities are criminal."

"Mr. Kane assures me that the situation in Pittsburgh is clearing up rapidly. The failure is regarded by many financial men of that city as a sort of blessing in disguise, because it has put an end to conditions which had threatened for months to become serious and create panicky conditions."

"The First-Second National Bank should have been closed instead of kept in operation, and a startling statement made by Comptroller Kane on his return here. He gave no reasons further than to refer to the condition of the bank for the past two years."

That the Kuhns must withdraw their funds from the First National Bank of McKeesport, Pa., before it can be reopened is the determination already reached by treasury officials. The run on this institution was caused solely, it is said, by the connection of the Kuhns with it.

SQUARE WITH LAW NOW

Persifer Frazier, Jr., Vows His Wife Second Time.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Philadelphia, Pa., July 9.—Persifer Frazier, Jr., president of the Holland and Hollingsworth Shipbuilding Company, to-day obtained a startling revelation from the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Mrs. Violet Keat Frazier, whom his first wife named as the correspondent in a suit of divorce against him, Frazier married the girl, who was an actress, and appeared in vaudeville under the name of Virginia Keat, against the mandate of the Pennsylvania courts, which had decreed that he must not marry during the life of Mrs. Frazier. Last week, when his writ of habeas corpus for the possession of his children was heard, Judge Cresswell suggested that if he married the woman again he would absolve himself from the charge of living with a woman against the law, and thus be a proper person to have the custody of his own children. As soon as the license was obtained, Mr. and Mrs. Frazier, and their four children, left the city and immediately left the city. At his mother's home it was said they did not know where he had gone, and Mr. Frazier's attorneys would not talk of the case except to say that the shipbuilder had removed to the Bahamas, which his opponents had raised against him.

MONEY WAS PLENTIFUL

Webster Springs, W. Va., July 9.—Joseph A. McClane, United States Senator from West Virginia, during the latter's campaign in West Virginia last winter, was a witness to-day in the trial of Ralph Duff for alleged bribery in connection with legislative selection of a Senator.

"A vote for Senator is worth $5,000 and $100 a day expense money," McClane said Duff told him when he asked Duff to vote for Elkins. "Duff informed me to-day that he had four votes for W. S. Edwards for the senate," continued McClane, "and I offered him $15,000 in an effort to ascertain whether other senatorial candidates were expending money. He refused to inform me where the money was, and left me saying he was joking."

Detective Guy Biddinger, who entrapped the indicted legislators, testified Duff had demanded $100,000 for his vote for W. S. Edwards for the senate, and that Duff had said the price was too low. He said Duff told him McClane had offered him $15,000 for four votes with $100 a day for expenses.

WARRANTS ARE ISSUED

Charleston, W. Va., July 9.—That the shooting at Ohley, on Cabin Creek, was the act of strikers from other mines was the statement made by the superintendent of the Cabin Creek Consolidated Coal Company at Ohley this morning. The men who were fired on by the strikers last evening have sworn out warrants for six strikers. Other warrants will be issued. The statement was made that many of the attacking force was recognized by the men who have declined to go on strike.

Governor Hatfield has called the attention of the civil officials to the fact that justices and judges must first use every effort to suppress rioting before coming to him.

POLICE LOOKING FOR SECOND MAN

He Is Believed to Be Implicated in Death of Alice Crispell.

CHAUFFEUR TELLS STORY

Mysterious Person in Dark Suit Was Seen Crouching on Pier.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Wilkesbarre, Pa., July 9.—Evidence tending to implicate a second man in the death of Alice Crispell, the eighteen-year-old girl whose body was found floating in Harvey's Lake two days ago, was furnished by Sephania I. Reese, an automobile dealer of the village of Plymouth. Reese attended the Fourth of July celebration at the hotel, and there saw Alice Crispell with Herbert Kane, her fiancé, and a number of their friends.

Shortly after 11 o'clock that night Reese drove a party from the Oneonta Hotel, and when passing Weeknash's house, where the murder is believed to have occurred, saw a man in a dark suit crouching on the piling of the pier. When Reese left the hotel, Miss Crispell and John Reese were still there. When Reese returned from Wilkesbarre he saw a man wearing a gray suit and wearing a Panama hat dragging the Crispell girl along the road near the boat-house, and the same man in the dark suit was still crouched on the pier watching the movements of Miss Crispell and the man in the gray suit.

Reese said that Miss Crispell appeared to be either drugged or intoxicated, and did not resist the efforts of the companion to carry her along. Reese turned to get a last look at the couple after passing the boat-house, and was surprised to find the girl had disappeared, and the man in the gray suit running over the fields, while the man in black remained on the pier.

The police are to-night looking for the man who wore the dark suit, believing they have sufficient description of him to be certain of his identity.

Coroner James F. Marley declared to-night he felt certain that Alice Crispell was not married, but that she fell into the lake either during an argument or accidentally.

The teeth marks found on the left arm of the dead girl, will, it is believed, go far toward establishing the identity of the man who was with her when she met her death. The coroner to-day took an impression of John's teeth, and will offer the comparison of the marks of the teeth with those of John's being held without bail, and will be arraigned on Friday charged with the murder, unless the coroner's inquest results in an unexpected verdict.

PLEASE STILL MERCIFUL

He Increases Pardon Record and Makes Sixteen Prisoners Happy.

Columbia, S. C., July 9.—Governor Bleasdale extended executive clemency in sixteen cases, which makes his pardon record approximate a total of nearly 700 prisoners released from the penitentiary since he became chief executive of the State over two years ago. The crimes for which those released to-day were convicted included: murder, 2; manslaughter, 3; arson, 1; assault with deadly weapon, 4; burglary, 1; forgery, 1; grand larceny, 1; housebreaking, 1; and violation of the dispensary law, 1.

The Governor said this morning that he would discontinue issuing pardons until Thanksgiving Day, which day last year he signaled by releasing seventy-nine prisoners at one time.

SHE WILL GET HER COW

Girl Tells Secretary That Is Only Thing Needed at Naval Home.

Philadelphia, July 9.—Secretary of the Navy Daniels to-day inspected the Philadelphia Navy Yard and the naval home and hospital here.

The secretary was not expected at the naval home, and Superintendent Hetherington was absent. His daughter received the secretary, and afterward summoned her father. The secretary, the home and the grounds surrounding it are beautiful and nothing is desired but one thing," said the girl, "a cow."

The secretary smiled and assured her the home would be provided with a cow by the government.

KILLED BY HIS SON

Farmer Dies of Wounds Received in Domestic Brandy Fight.

Central, S. C., July 9.—John Dobson, a farmer, aged fifty, residing near here, died to-day from wounds received last night in a pistol duel with his seventeen-year-old son. It is said that the boy attempted to aid his mother, whom Dobson is alleged to have been mistreating. Dobson, returning the fire, mortally wounded another son who had taken no part in the difficulty. After the shooting the elder boy escaped and surrendered to the sheriff to-day.

STORY OF WITNESS CAN BE SHAKEN

Savage Cross-Examination Fails to Budge Connolly From Recital.

MAKES BAD IMPRESSION

Admits Fight on Cohalan Is for Money and Revenge.

Albany, N. Y., July 9.—Under a savage cross-examination, which continued till nearly midnight, John A. Connolly, the accused of Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, stuck to the story he told the legislative Judiciary Committee on his direct examination. Incidentally, he admitted that he had juggled his books to recover money from the justice; that he had been willing to buy and pay for political influence, and that the exposure he made of his relations with Cohalan were inspired by a dual desire for money and revenge.

Plainly, Connolly excited the active hostility of most of the committee men. But the attack made upon him by Attorney Stanchfield, for the defense, did not diminish the force of a single one of his charges.

Justice Cohalan was visibly cheered by the assault upon his accuser, and smiled once or twice in the course of the day, a thing he has not done since the investigation began. His lawyers, delighted with the results of the day, had planned to come to count them up in the evening, they found, to the surprise of the committee, that they had made little real headway in the defense of their client.

The points brought out by Connolly's cross-examination were in the order of their importance.

That he has been placed on the payroll of a newspaper in return for the exposure of the now making, receiving $2,000 a year and a bonus of $1,000, $10,000 in all with duties as renting agent of the building occupied by the newspaper. He has been employed with Cohalan for many years, but has done no renting business.

That by advice of his attorney that he could recover the money paid to Cohalan, as he alleges for political influence, Connolly swore that he had advanced this money as loans, and entered these advances on the books. Stanchfield tried to get him to say he was willing to be for money, but was not successful.

That he with two other men made a campaign contribution of $2500 to the Democratic fund of 1906, and that Connolly went on the note of Robert Whitney, chairman, the Dutchess County millionaire, and one-time husband of Lina Cavalier, so that Cavalier could get the money to continue in the same campaign.

That he borrowed from his attorney the $500 charged for buying the $3,405.55 from Cohalan, then borrowed more money from the same lawyer and repaid none of it. That he had also got back another campaign contribution of $160 after the campaign was over.

Against these facts, which have been admitted all along by Connolly, was his statement in the morning that Cohalan had offered to get him a political job in return for his note, but not the offer. He also admits paying the money to Cohalan, and on this rests the whole case of the prosecution.

It was announced by a Cohalan retainer to-night that the justice will try to force the bar association to call Murphy, but Murphy is not called by the defense. The defense will bring up the defense of Murphy's name was brought up by Connolly during the evening. The witness told or tried to tell of going to Cohalan's home, and of seeing Cohalan's treatment of him, and of trying to get Cohalan a peace footing. Stanchfield headed him off, and the story of how the six Irish-Americans called on the boss to square Connolly and Cohalan is yet to be told.

OBITUARY

J. W. May.

order to prevent a disturbance of the Bulgarian equilibrium. The problem of dealing with the dead and wounded is proving very serious. The nursing is in a very bad way. The resources in Belgrade are woefully insufficient. It is stated that the Servians have permitted a pause in the operations to allow removal of wounded and internment of dead and carrying out of sanitary measures.

The Greek government has made urgent representations to the Bulgarian government against massacres and atrocities alleged to have been committed by the Bulgarian troops and irregulars, declaring that in the event of senseless Greek populations being left to their fate, Greece would be obliged to take rigorous measures to put an end to Bulgarian atrocities.

A Greek official statement asserts that instead of 5,000, as alleged by Bulgaria, General Ivanoff's army consisted of 120,000 men.

HOUSE DECIDES TO INVESTIGATE LOBBY CHARGES

before the House Ways and Means Committee. At the suggestion of Chairman Dingley, he said he had tried to get the wool growers and manufacturers to get together on a wool duty that would be agreeable to all.

"I never got what I wanted," insisted the witness.

Whitman said he enjoyed friendly relations with Senators Aldrich, Allison and Platt, of Connecticut, and with Representative Clifton B. Beckenridge, of Arkansas. He talked with these men about the wool industry and made suggestions to them. He did not attempt to write wool schedules.

Produces Many Letters.

Whitman produced more than a 100 letters and telegrams that passed between himself and Senators Aldrich, Allison and Platt, of Connecticut, and Representative Clifton B. Beckenridge, of Arkansas. They show North's relations with Whitman while he was working for members of the Finance Committee.

A. D. Baldwin, of Cleveland, attorney, before the Senate committee to-day, read many of the letters into the record, and in Washington, talking to Congressmen about the sugar tariff, he represented Alexander & Baldwin, of New York, and received $30 a day.

A. S. Smith, of Tennessee, Ga. president of the State branch of the Farmers' Union, was questioned about a meeting of a committee of the National Farmers' Union at New Orleans last spring, at which an attempt was made to secure the consumption of cotton was to be discussed.

He testified that his expenses there

Wants the Records.

Winthrop L. Marvin, of the Wool Association, took the stand to tell the committee some of the things Whitman did not answer. Senator Reed appeared anxious to get the records of the association, and Marvin said vouchers and receipts, books and other memoranda of financial transactions were always kept by him. Marvin said the association collected about $20,000 in 1912, and in 1913 practically the same sum. In 1911 the collection was about $15,000 and in 1910 and 1909 about $12,000 a year.

He never knew of a single dollar expended for a political purpose," he added.

When Marvin left the stand he was instructed to wire for his books covering all operations back to 1905.

Mrs. Draper Denies It.

[Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.] London, July 9.—Mrs. William F. Draper, of Washington, to-night issued a formal denial of the report that her daughter, Margaret, was engaged to Prince Dauvergne. Despite this denial close friends of the Drapers asserted that the young couple are actually engaged, but Mrs. Draper does not wish the fact to become known until she sees fit to announce it formally.

GODDESS OF FREEDOM GETS $16,000 BATH

Washington, July 9.—The Goddess of Freedom, the statue which stands upon the steps of the Capitol dome, is receiving her annual bath to-day. Tourists came in swarms at two o'clock, many carrying buckets of soap, and were securing the goddess, and who will take several days at the job.

Aside from the shower baths occasionally administered by the elements, the goddess has not had a regular bath as often as other folk exposed to the dust and heat of the out-of-doors.

The bathing job has been entrusted to Charles MacNichol, of a local painting firm, who has been painting the statue for many years. Mr. MacNichol and his trusty lieutenants gathered a bunch of soap and mops to-day, and went to work on the historic figure. From massive head to elongated feet the goddess of Freedom is to be baptized in soapy water and then she's going to be painted over again.

Congress has appropriated $4,000 for the bathing and painting of the goddess, and Superintendent Elliott Woods, of the Capitol, estimated that about 240,000 gallons will be needed to properly bathe the goddess and the dome upon which she stands.

The washing of the Goddess of Freedom is but preliminary to the painting, which will take several weeks. Mr. MacNichol probably will have two score men at work before the entire task is finished.

There are no elevators leading to the dome, and the painters, as well as the goddess, have to trudge up the long steel stairways.

An immense scaffold is now being placed about the dome, and for the purpose of this has to be carried up by hand over a ladder which reaches to the top of the dome.

New Record Made by Mack. Raleigh, N. C., July 9.—Earl Mack, son of Connie Mack, manager of the Philadelphia Athletics, is believed to have made a new world's record for chances accepted in a ball game here last afternoon between the Raleigh and Durham clubs of the Carolina League. Mack accepted thirty-one chances, twenty-nine putouts and two assists, without the least sign of error. The game went for eighteen innings, and was won by Raleigh, 4 to 3. Young Mack is manager and first baseman of the Raleigh club.
